- visitors to our websites;
- people who use our services, e.g. who subscribe to our newsletter or request information from us; and
- our current and former employees.

3. Visitors to our website

When someone visits www.omniaoutsourcing.com or omniapayroll.com or omniabackoffice.com we use a third party service, Google Analytics, to collect standard internet log information and details of visitor behaviour patterns. We do this to find out things such as the number of visitors to the various parts of the site. This information is only processed in a way which does not identify anyone. We do not make, and do not allow Google to make, any attempt to find out the identities of those visiting our website. If we do want to collect personally identifiable information through our website, we will be up front about this. We will make it clear when we collect personal information and will explain what we intend to do with it.

Omnia uses a third party service provider to help maintain the security and performance of the website. To deliver this service it processes the IP addresses of visitors to the website.

We use a third party service, WordPress.com for our website. Omnia site is hosted at WordPress.com, which is run by Automattic Inc. We use a standard WordPress service to collect anonymous information about users' activity on the site, for example the number of users viewing pages on the site, to monitor and report on the effectiveness of the site and help us improve it. For more information about how WordPress processes data, please see Automattic's privacy notice.

We will also monitor any emails sent to us, including file attachments, for viruses or malicious software. Please be aware that you have a responsibility to ensure that any email you send is within the bounds of the law.

7. People who make a complaint to us

When we receive a complaint from a person we make up a file containing the details of the complaint. This normally contains the identity of the complainant and any other individuals involved in the complaint.

We will only use the personal information we collect to process the complaint and to check on the level of service we provide. We usually have to disclose the complainant's identity to whoever the complaint is about. This is inevitable where, for example, the accuracy of a person's record is in dispute. If a complainant doesn't want information identifying him or her to be disclosed, we will try to respect that. However, it may not be possible to handle a complaint on an anonymous basis.

We will keep personal information contained in complaint files in line with our retention policy. This means that information relating to a complaint will be retained for two years from closure. It will be retained in a secure environment and access to it will be restricted according to the 'need to know' principle.

Similarly, where enquiries are submitted to us, we will only use the information supplied to us to deal with the enquiry and any subsequent issues and to check on the level of service we provide.

8. People who use Omnia services

This may contain personal information, for example where the business is a sole trader. Omnia compiles this information into a list which it is required by law to make available. Omnia cannot therefore give any guarantees as to how the information contained on the list will be used by those accessing it.

When individuals fill in their registration forms, they are asked to provide their contact details. Omnia will use this for its own purposes, for example where we have a query about a registration but will not publish or distribute it.

When we request information as part of the registration process, we make it clear where the provision of information is required by law and where it is voluntary.
